JARBIDGE, Nev. — A team of U.S. Forest Service resource specialists will venture into Jarbridge sometime this week to assess damage, if any, to South Canyon Road.

The inspection — to check on road work done by a volunteer Shovel Brigade — will occur today or later in the week, said Bob Swinford, a regional Forest

Agencies want to know if river was affected

Service spokesman.

"There were plans to have a team of resource people to go into Jarbridge after the Forest said it would be the Forest Service's Odgen, Utah office. "They will assess any resource damage, if any was done."

Randi Thompson, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said agency crews will also head to Jarbridge to survey the work done Monday and Tuesday, and determine if damages were done to the river.

The fish biologists and two law enforcement agents from the agency will assess the Jarbridge River.

"We're going to look at what impact if any the road crew has caused," Thompson said.

there was a violation of the Endangered Species Act, we would pursue that. If they didn't get in the water, there shouldn't be a problem.

Work crews cleared a 300-foot path along a rocky, 900-foot washed-out section of South Canyon Road.

May poles were placed at the foot of the path to prevent dirt from slipping down into the creek, Thompson said.

Violations to the river could add up to more penalties and fines to Elko County, if a proposed agreement isn't reached soon.

The Just Defense Fund has threatened a $25,000 fine against the county, stemming from 1998 road work that may now cost about $19 million.

EARLY ARRIVAL

With afterburner blasting, Bill Reesman buzzes Joslin Field Magic Valley Regional Airport in his MiG-17 Vietnam era fighter jet. The aircraft will be hanged at the airport until the Air Magic Valley 2000 air show July 20-22.

MV air show will feature MiGBy Brandon Flata

TWIN FALLS — Ex-fighter pilot Bill Reesman straps himself into the MiG-17 he built in his garage, taxies down the runway picking up speed, football field lengths of black tarmac passing beneath.

The MiG-17 jet fighter leaps into the sky with a roar and a roar. Reeseman opens the jet engine and 7,500 pounds of thrust jam him into his seat as the afterburner roars.

During aerial maneuvers are a favorite treat in air shows across the nation and they'll be part of this year's Air Magic Valley 2000 event July 20-22 at Joslin Field.

Reesman and his MiG-17 are the feature attraction — he even built a jet car that goes from 0 to 300 mph in under six seconds — but there will be a variety of aircraft, from Vietnam-era MiGs to Super Sabres, said he has flown 50-plus planes in the 45 years he's been a pilot.

Today Reesman, and his wife, Julie Nisticie Reesman, married earlier this year, operate the Red Bull air show. Bill Reesman has flown in air shows with MiGs since 1992. "I do the world's only jet flight night pyrotechnic act," Reesman said. He performs the act at night with pyrotechnics that will go off from July 21 here in Twin Falls.

For the pyrotechnic act, Reesman flies through 6-6 maneuvering over 100 feet of flame coming off each wing tip.

"It's a spectacular sight," said David Allen, airport manager and chairman of the Air Magic Valley 2000 Planning Committee. "The aircraft can be seen from over 30 miles away."

Reesman stopped in Twin Falls to drop off the MiG for the air show.

"He's leaving the MiG here to save money on fuel," Julie Nisticie Reesman said. It would take about $2,000 worth of fuel to fly the MiG back to California, she said.

The Russian MiG-17 is a refined version of the famous MiG-15 of the Korean War. The first flight of the MiG-17 prototype took place in 1952, and mass production began in late 1954, according to the USAF Museum.

The MiG-17 has served in the air arms of at least 20 nations throughout the world. During the Vietnam War, MiG-17s were used in North Vietnam against U.S. aircraft.

"I spent 20 years training to fight the MiG-17 and I'm still doing it," Reesman said. "I'm impressed with Russian jets. They're well built planes."

The MiG-17 is one of the best air show planes because of its speed, maneuverability and a great look," Reesman said. "The plane was built about 50 years ago but the technology is good enough that some countries still use them."

Will the power hold out?

Summer electricity supplies begin to concern some

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — As this summer begins, electric utility managers, federal officials and the power industry are keeping a watchful eye on the nation's electric grids and cautioning that a severe heat spell — combined with possible summer slowdowns — could cause power outages in some parts of the country.

As the $220 billion electricity industry has expanded and faced competition, there are growing concerns that the power industry is running too close to the edge in providing electricity when it is most needed — during peak summer months.

Spurred on by the growing economy and increased reliance on computers and other electrical devices, electricity demand has been rising at about 3 percent a year while production has lagged. Meanwhile, the safety cushion has dropped to below 15 percent of generating capacity, not far above 25 percent of a decade ago.

Signs of problems have already shown up in some areas this summer.

Audit: IRS owes millions in overpayments

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal auditors found that millions of taxpayers overpaid their taxes that should have been credited to their accounts or refunded by the Internal Revenue Service, according to an independent audit that cites computer problems as the main culprit.

Thousands more individuals, families and businesses forfeited their rights to refunds or credits or faced the risk of disqualification if total tax overpayments amounted to $335 million. These taxpayers failed to file late tax returns in time for legal deadlines. In addition, the IRS has returned or credited the money owed and is fixing the problem. Still, some taxpayers mistakenly got IRS notices demanding taxes already paid or were forced to deal with IRS liens.

sharply lower by crude oil's fall.

Prices of gasoline, heating oil, propane, natural gas and heating oil and natural gas contracts each dipped 4 percent, although such changes generally take a few weeks to affect the retail market.

Oil companies and refineries will provide higher production within a few days if prices don't quickly head lower toward their preferred price of about $25 a barrel.

Saudi Arabia fears risking the wrath of the United States and other Western nations whose economies have been pinched by higher prices.

Where the United States gets its oil

Saudi Arabia, the world's No. 1 producer and exporter of oil, plans to boost oil output, which is likely to ease the prices consumers pay for gasoline and heating oil. Here is a look at U.S. imports of crude oil, in thousands of barrels.
